Dear Wendy Dixon:

1 I am writing to add my voice to the enormous opposition to locating a nuclear-waste dump in the Yucca Mountains. The idea is so unrealistic and so threatening that one can hardly conceive of it even being under consideration. "Out of sight", I suppose, makes some administrative people prefer such a waste dump to perceiving it overtly into the rivers and ground water.

The reality of nuclear waste is that no safe place exists for its disposal. Then, if one is capable of logical thinking, the next step is questioning and rejecting nuclear energy as contrary to existence on Earth. The thinking about it is so unrealistic that is seems pathological – like an agreed upon insanity among policy makers.

Please, no waste dump. We need a habitable Earth.

2 Sincerely,
Jo Hanson

I've read about Hanford law suits. Now suits will occur everywhere because there is no good solution.
