Dear Dr. Summerson:

The forces that oppose the Yucca Mountain Repository cater to money, favors, and all that goes with it. Their mindset is in the present and immediate future; the now. But the issue is not about the now. It is about thousands of years from now. The project is inclusive, practical, and rational, and the dangerous substances involved may well be with us long after political machines pass into history. Our species has the responsibility and capacity to survive as long as there is a universe, and implementation of the Yucca Mountain Repository represents a positive step in that direction.

Sincerely,

Fred Bilello
