1 | Every state that voted for nuclear power, built nuclear power facilities, and uses (or has used) nuclear power needs to be responsible for that decision and declare a depository within its own borders for the nuclear waste generated therefrom. The government says the depository can be made perfectly safe even in an earthquake prone area like Yucca Mountain. So why ship all of to one state? A state that doesn't even have nuclear power plants. THE ONLY FAIR WAY IS FOR EACH STATE TO STORE ITS OWN NUCLEAR WASTE.
