Subject: Transporting nuclear waste

Part of Records Package / Supplement / Correction

October 3, 2001

Dear Ms. Hanlon

I must protest the ridiculous idea that it is wise to ship spent nuclear rods all the way across the United States to an unsafe storage facility and then store it on a parking lot while you are digging the spot. This is only the illusion of a solution. All you are doing is allowing the utilities to escape their liability, shifting it to the government. It would be cheaper to have just given them the money in the beginning not to produce the power.

Thank you for accepting my comment on the Department of Energy plan.
