--> [My father Milton Porter worked for the test site in underground and above-ground testing and died a horrific painful death, and now our government wants to put a nuclear waste dump here, plus double the capacity of it? Do we really have to ask "Is this a good idea?" Isn't the government struggling to pay off or not to pay off these workers that died and now take another chance with others lives! Why don't each state store their own wastes, or is Nevada the nuclear garbage can for America?]
